Not long after Marion Cox married Sarah Jane DeWitt, he broke his leg. For whatever the reason, he did not see a doctor. Because of this his leg healed crooked. Both of them delivered mail a couple of times a week for the Pony Express while they were living near Ozark, Missouri. Their son Charlie was in Ohio getting a education through the GI bill. He thought it would be easier for his dad to get around in Ohio where he was living; so, he bought them a house. Marion, Sarah, and their family moved to Delta, Ohio in 1923.
